Excerpt from The Canadian Journal of Medicine and Surgery, Vol. 13: A Journal Published Monthly in the Interest of Medicine and Surgery; January to June, 1903 M President, Ladies and Gentlemen, - I have thought it worth while to attempt to present a phase of preventive medicine which, though playing an important part in our social welfare, is Often not consciously realized by us. We are so occupied with the practical concerns of our intense, everyday life, and so Often fail to recognize those in uences which direct and govern our acts, that in a certain sense we are automata, dependent upon our sen sations and impulses.
