Ben Hardin, on the Subject of the Removal of the Deposites: Delivered in the House of Representatives, April 1 and 3, 1834 Resolutions reported by the Committee of Ways and Means, to whom were referred the reasons of the Secretary of the Treasury for removing the public deposits from the Bank of the United States, and placing them in banks incorporated by the different States. 1. Resolved, That the Bank of the United States ought not to be rechartered. 2. Resolved, That the public deposits ought not to be restored to the Bank of the United States. 3. Resolved, That the State banks ought to be continued as the places of deposite of the public money, and that it is expedient for Congress to make further provision, by law, prescribing the mode of selection, the securities to be taken, and the manner and terms on which they are to be employed. The following amendment was offered by Mr. Wilde: Resolved, That the reasons assigned by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the removal of the public deposits from the Bank of the United States, are unsatisfactory and insufficient. The above resolutions being under consideration, Mr. Hardin, of Kentucky, addressed to the House of Representatives the following remarks: Mr. Speaker: On Friday, it is well recollected by the House, it was either my good or ill fortune to make an attempt to obtain the floor, for the purpose of submitting to the consideration of the members my views upon the resolutions and amendment now under discussion. In that attempt I was successful; but the hour was late, and I was not then immediately prepared to proceed...
